

The Deadline Arc

The Wake-Up

The morning did not ask permission.

Wait, what time is it?

The evidence was everywhere.

Why are there notes on the floor?

The screen had opinions.

Okay. We can still fix this.

Then the countdown became real.

Five days is basically tomorrow.

The Deadline Arc

The Spiral

Every answer opened two more questions.

One at a time, please.

Finance, art, lifestyle, memory, all shouting.

2

Is this genius or nonsense?

The options multiplied like browser tabs.

3

I need one clear thing.

Even the bad ideas left footprints.

4

No, not another scanner.

The Deadline Arc

The Almost-Quit

For a minute, quitting sounded peaceful.

1

Maybe I sleep and become someone else.

Ambition had terrible handwriting.

2

This is too much.

Then one phrase refused to leave.

3

Turn life into comics...

The room got quieter around it.

4

Wait. That actually works.

The Deadline Arc

The Spark

The mess became panels.

Four boxes. One story.

The day had not been wasted.

This is the product.

Every chaotic day deserves a frame.

The Deadline Arc.

Some wins arrive as a rough sketch.

Let's build it.